*"Sing and dance together and be joyous
but let each one of you be alone."*

Kahlil Gibran

*The fears, beliefs, and prejudices of our parents touch the minds which birth

Bringing upon us not our identity but a replica of our parents.

*We live as a crowd, believe as a crowd
Without the knowledge to know better.*

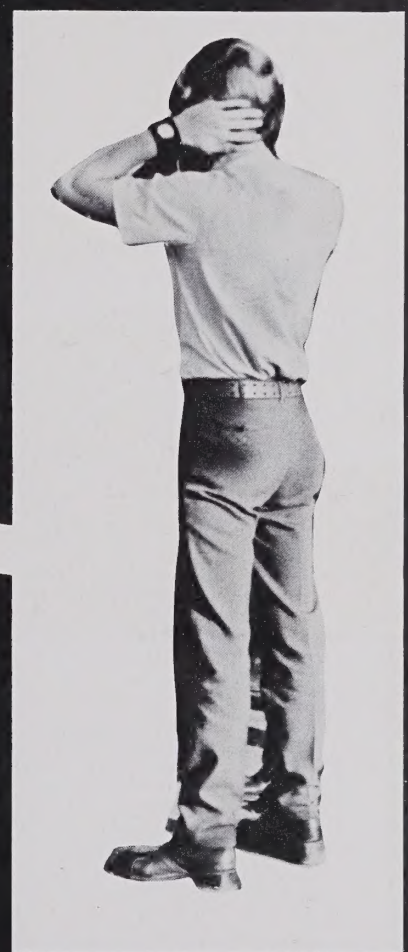

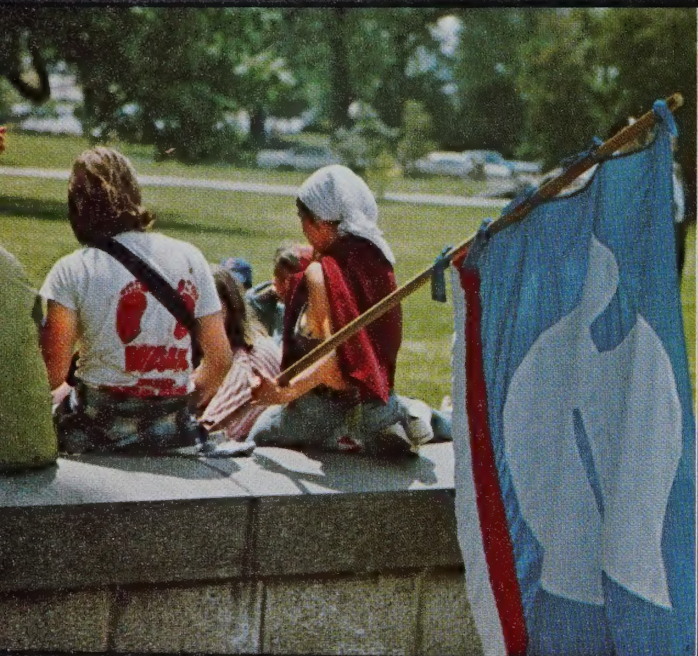

*Yet as we grow, our minds grow
Reaching out to new horizons
Focusing on ideas of our own
Realizing that we must become individuals.*

Summer is not merely a time for rest and recreation . . .

Four students had the honor of representing Central at Boys' and Girls' State, learning the intricacies of the political process, while holding offices themselves.

Pemican editors attended a workshop in Farmville, Virginia (where?), where they slaved over copy and lay-outs for the '73 Pemican with the assistance of Whitey Boswell, their Delmar representative.

Back in Bison country, exhausted football players questioned their sanity.

Many Central students occupied their summers by slaving away for their bosses. Work means money and future experience—which is very important.

Four hundred of North Carolina's "cream of the crop" went to Salem College for the annual Governor's School. For seven weeks, four Central students diligently worked in orchestra and math — and enjoyed it.

Well, at last — Central finally received a new paint job — through and through. The auditorium and classrooms were painted, and a locker room was renovated into much-needed storage space.

Some members of the NFL spent their summers away from High Point. Colleges and universities were the site for the speech institutes where debaters received instructions and experience.

Other students did not really know what summer felt like because they were in summer school or taking complicated trig tests. Trig students hurriedly tried to finish the correspondence course in order to take a higher math.

With the beginning of school, students' anticipations, hopes, and dreams arrived once more. The leadership of Earnest Miller, High Point Central's first black president, brought the student body closer together through his enthusiasm and high hopes of making Central a great school.

Rooms were assigned, locks issued, handbooks scanned, and groans escaped as the first homework was given out.

BEGINNING OF SCHOOL

BEGINNING OF SCHOOL

On hot August days, many students and teachers half-heartedly did their work, really caring about being outside and playing hopscotch.

With many students still on summer vacation, executive board members put Central's future ahead of their individual interests. Executive board took several days out of their summer schedule to attend a workshop at Mars Hill, also setting conferences with Mr. Shaver to discuss his opinions, and talking to fellow students about possible ways to improve their school.

Pictures were taken early in the year; and, as usual, confusion and chaos reigned. Unprepared boys were sent scurrying for ties, and girls were quick to find a light-colored blouse. Seniors had four chances to get a picture that wasn't reminiscent of a "wanted" poster.

In hopes of a winning football season, students went to the first pep rally with the usual lack of spirit and energy. The cheer "Battle Cry" seemed to be the only chant to bring out some of the lost feeling.

PEP RALLY: Key Club

Club Week at Central found students going to different club meetings and finding out more about the clubs.

Then after much heavy thinking, students finally applied to the club of their choice, hoping they would be one of the lucky few to be chosen.

Class rings to many juniors meant prestige and a step closer to being a senior. While having their fingers measured and choosing between a red or blue stone, students dreamed of the future when they would flash their hand around to show off that long-awaited ring.

College Day brought together college, university, and technical school representatives, juniors, seniors, and for the first time, parents. Both students and parents could browse around, gather information, or ask questions. Students began to finalize their future plans while learning what courses and grades were needed for their higher education.

COLLEGE DAY

Haunted House, sponsored by the High Point Youth Council during Halloween, provided a chance for screams and laughter for people of all ages. The house full of ghosts and goblins was located on West Green Street; and it took the efforts of many people; but in the end, was enjoyed by all.

Football programs, report cards, and Drug Program brochures comprised only a few chapters in the journal of accomplishments of the Central Graphics Department this year. Students made use of printing presses, cameras, bindery equipment, and a darkroom, while turning out useful items for the school and community.

Central's first Parent-Teacher-Student Association meeting of the year, began with a brief introduction, and then parents dispersed to follow their son's or daughter's schedule. Teachers gave brief descriptions and helped familiarize the parents with the courses.

To end the open house, refreshments were served with background music by the stage band.

Many High Point Central seniors demonstrated the powers of democracy by using their newly obtained 18-year-old vote at the poll on November 7. The 18-year-old vote spurred much student involvement in the national election, and a survey showed the majority backing President Nixon.

INDIAN HISTORY ASSEMBLY

The guidance office held coffees for the parents of students in order to promote a more relaxed and informal atmosphere between parents and teachers. Parents were given a chance to ask questions and make suggestions concerning high school opportunities, college, and future employment.

Several English classes had the privilege of hearing Richard Chase, noted poet, author, and authority on the folklore and folk music of the Appalachian region. Collector of The Jack Tales, Mr. Chase recited one of the tales and discussed many of the old words used in the mountains.

Beta Club Induction brought together juniors with a 3.5 grade average and seniors with a 3.0 grade average. After the recognition of students, both old and new members took the Beta pledge to use scholarship and leadership abilities for the betterment of the school. Guest speaker for the event was Reverend Tom Duncan of First United Methodist Church.

History classes were given the chance to explore the world and history of the American Indians. Artifacts, chants, dances, dress, slides, and displays were presented to the students by Explorer Post 4.

CHEERLEADER: Hilli Fick

Trying to enliven school spirit at football games, the Bison cheerleaders used several devices to pep up the mainly apathetic crowd. Along with the usual cheers and signs, they employed Don Kirkman, Central's male "cheerleader," to lead the crowd in many rousing yells.

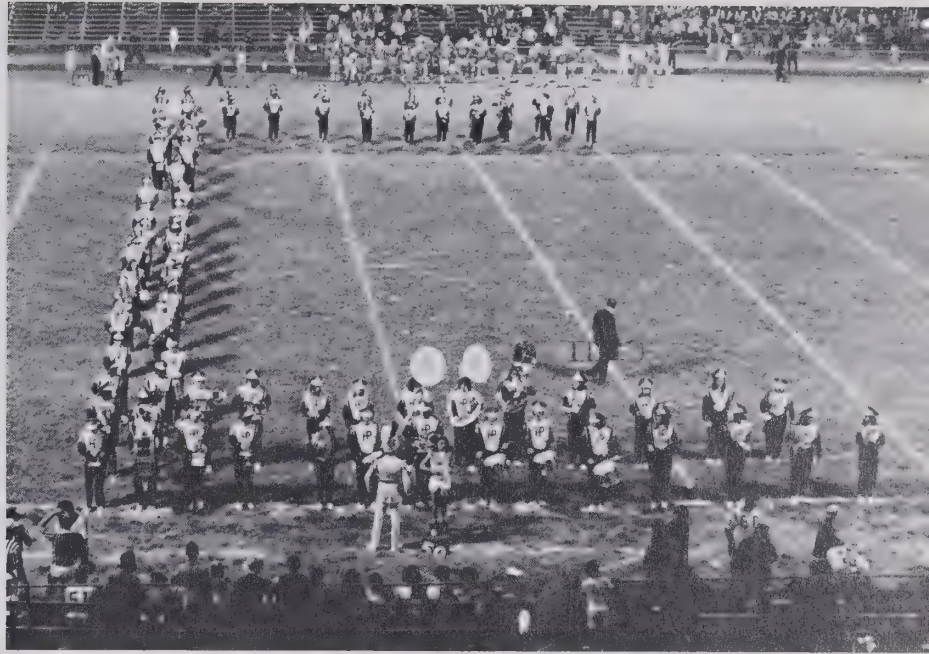

Students usually reacted to Don's cheers with much enthusiasm and fervor. Bison mascot, Don Jones, also promoted team spirit.

At halftime, High Point Central's marching band proved to the student body how well the band could march when they made several intricate designs while playing.

Along with the music, the Bisonettes entertained spectators with their interesting footwork. For the first time in several years, the band brought the crowd to their feet.

BANQUET SPEAKER: Lou Holtz

FOOTBALL BANQUET: Bill Brockman

FOOTBALL BANQUET: Michael Thompson, Coach Ken Moore, Coach Pat Withers

After finishing a highly successful season, the Central football team was honored at the annual football banquet where the many highlights and the top players were presented.

Guest speaker was North Carolina State football coach, Lou Holtz. Players, along with parents, teachers, and students, gave Holtz a standing ovation after a very impressive and vivid speech.

Bison Head Coach Roy Boyles announced the seniors would receive game jerseys, and then presented running back Bill Brockman with the Most Valuable Trophy.

Other awards presented were:
 Darrell Pinson — Knocker of the Year
 Donnie Golden — Most Improved Player
 Larry Inzar — Unsung Hero Award
 Mike Thompson — Leadership Award
 Barry Brewer — Police Award

The Tactical Air Command Band brought a resounding beat of pleasant music to the halls of Central when they performed several popular numbers, including "Everybody Plays the Fool."

Students taking a study hall were given a chance to better their driving skills, habits, and attitudes with a two week Defensive Driving Workshop led by officials from the State of North Carolina. Speakers, films, and discussions helped students to "watch out for the other guy."

The Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test—National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test exhausted the minds of many juniors in a two-hour examination. With mixed reactions, students later received scores, hoping they were good enough to be considered in the awarding of scholarships.

While the juniors were taking the PSAT-NMSQT, seniors were busy building their vocabularies and improving their reading in order to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

CHRISTMAS ASSEMBLY: Centralaires

CHRISTMAS: Chuck Martin and Craig Burris

"All good things must come to an end" and thus the traditional Christmas assembly which began on Friday was completed on Tuesday.

The new schedule changed the old format from the customary one-day assembly to a program spread over a three-day period.

The chorus initiated the series Friday, was followed by the orchestra on Monday, and the band concluded the program on Tuesday.

Everyone helped to add to the general feeling of goodwill that was prevalent around Central on the last day.

Also adding to the Christmas spirit, Santa Claus (Craig Burris) and his helper (Chuck Martin) filled the halls with yule-time music.

Two days of heavy snow and several inches of accumulation resulted in four days of vacation for students who spent their work-free time skiing, sledding, snowball fighting, or creating snowmen.

Possessing leadership, cheerfulness, friendliness, and thoughtfulness, Dana Holton was selected as the DAR Good Citizen.

One of the Civinettes' projects this year was the making of ditty bags to send to hospitalized veterans. Initiated by the Red Cross, this nation-wide project provided veterans with useful and enjoyable articles.

Composed mainly of inexperienced speakers, the National Forensic League once again competed in many tournaments. With Mrs. Rachel Roberts primarily coaching the speech events and Mr. Michael Pierce assisting the debators, our speakers placed very high in tournaments in which they competed.

Allison Veach, Jan Greer, Ann Beaver, and Joy Duncan were among the top placers in tournaments attended at Gatlinburg High School, Asheville High School, Kingsport High School, and Andrews High School.

Based on points accumulated by her students over the years, Mrs. Roberts received a double diamond pin, the highest award which can be bestowed upon a forensic coach.

Don Kirkman and Walker Smith debated their way to the top of several tournaments including Northwestern, Wake Forest, Redlands College, and Emory University. Although Joe Craig had to change partners during the season, he did very well in competition. The novice debate teams of John Tobin-Richard Alexander and Danny Fitzgerald-Keith Leeper fared very well in their premier competition.

Central once again boasted two National Merit Finalists, Dana Holton and Dennis Smith. They were selected on the basis of their PSAT/NMSQT scores and individual class records.

Earnest Miller presided over an assembly explaining the duties of Executive Board. Interested students learned "everything they always wanted to know about ward representatives" along with other explanations of Executive Board duties.

Key Clubbers and Keyettes conducted a city-wide Multiple Sclerosis Drive. Standing on street corners, knocking on doors, and soliciting from friends, the clubs amassed a generous number of donations.

Subjuniors were kept busy this year by sponsoring a Little League basketball team at the Y.M.C.A. Strategy plans were drawn up by the girls to insure a winning team.

Central hosted the Distributive Education Clubs of America contest in which eighteen high schools participated. The main purpose of the contest was to further develop the students' skills in such areas as advertising, sales, job interviewing, and public speaking.

Much time and preparation went into forming the new English curriculum. A few of the new courses were Humanities, Man and Cars, Theatre Production, Bible, and History of Film. In addition, a Reading Lab was set up to help improve a student's reading ability.

Students interested in exploring the world of poetry attended classes taught by Julia Fields, a published North Carolina poetess. The week-long series attempted to show the students how to delve into poetry and express themselves more freely. Executive Board held a reception for Miss Fields which the budding poets attended. At the end of the week, an anthology of the best poems was assembled for publication.

History classes were involved in an interesting new curriculum. Names and places in history seemed more real to students after a trip to Colonial Williamsburg. A weekend was spent there by selected history students.

Mrs. Sharon Haynes, student teacher under Dr. Miller and Miss Tapp, has now joined the ranks of the history department.

Central's new study center, not a formal study hall, provided something for everybody. For all those who wanted to study, reference books, current magazines, paperbacks, and help were readily available. If they didn't want to study, students saw films, watched TV, or played checkers and chess.

The beautification of the school was the concern of the Science Club, which was involved in a state-wide beautification program. The club planted flowers, repaired the sidewalks, and improved the general landscape.

Capable students were selected for the High I.Q. team, and practiced after school to increase their knowledge. Good general knowledge and quick responses were major requirements for the members.

Teachers selected twenty-one students to the mythical Who's Who for outstanding participation in school activities. Approximately five per cent of the senior class belongs to Who's Who.

Spaghetti lovers ate their fill at the senior class spaghetti supper which was the seniors' only money-making project. Several committees organized the event where delicious food was served to the beat of music.

Spreading their good cheer, the Keyettes spent many hours perfecting valentines to give to the teachers. Cupids and doilies were cut and pasted together in hopes of brightening the teachers' day.

Science Club officers talked to club advisor, Mrs. Verdie Kendall, about plans for the state-wide beautification program.

Chosen by the science department for his science record, Jim Fowler received the Bausch and Lomb Science Award for 1972-73.

BASKETBALL FANS

PEP RALLY: Ann Hayes, Heidi Athanas, Anna Stallings

The turnout at the basketball games this year was not what it should have been, but the fans who did attend were enthusiastic.

At a few home games, students had the chance to win free tickets by shooting free throws at halftime. Seniors were honored at the last home game and sat in a marked-off section.

A pep rally honoring the wrestlers and the basketball players was held, based on the theme of old and new spirit. The junior varsity girls did their part in boosting new spirit. Then the varsity cheerleaders in old uniforms tried to revive some of the lost spirit at Central.

Proving their janitorial ability, Civinettes did their part for beautifying Central by keeping the many trophies sparkling and dust-free.

What's rectangular, owned by the Math Club, and often boasts a riddle? The Math Club bulletin board! The riddles were used for contests with winners receiving tickets to a basketball game.

Comprising one of the most interesting programs of the year, Mrs. Anna Batista graced the Spanish Club with her appearance. Mrs. Batista, a pharmacist in High Point, was originally from Cuba.

Hard at work at the desk, helpers demonstrated that a librarian's life is not always merely checking in books and writing overdue slips.

Career Day was held in March to give students a chance to meet and talk with experts from many different fields of the professional and business world. The experts talked about requirements of, preparations for, and opportunities of their careers.

New this year, mini-sessions were added to acquaint students with job applications, home-making, and post-graduate institutions.

Sessions included such careers as the military services, medicine, athletics, banking, social work, interior decorating, and conservation.

Central's black students presented a program for Black History Week. Ten students recited poems, sang a hymn, danced, and did a skit which involved contemporary themes. Among the poems presented were "The Negro Mother," "Cross," "The Ballad of the Landlord," and "To My Brother in Vietnam." For a finale, the entire cast presented a church scene; Preacher Earnest Miller delivered a "hell fire and damnation" sermon.

As an encouragement to budding journalists, Quill and Scroll honored outstanding work in writing, photography, proofing, and sales for the school publications, Pemican and Pointer.

As a service project, Subjuniors carried meals to needy people who were unable to leave their homes. The girls performed a valuable service by donating their time to "Meals on Wheels."

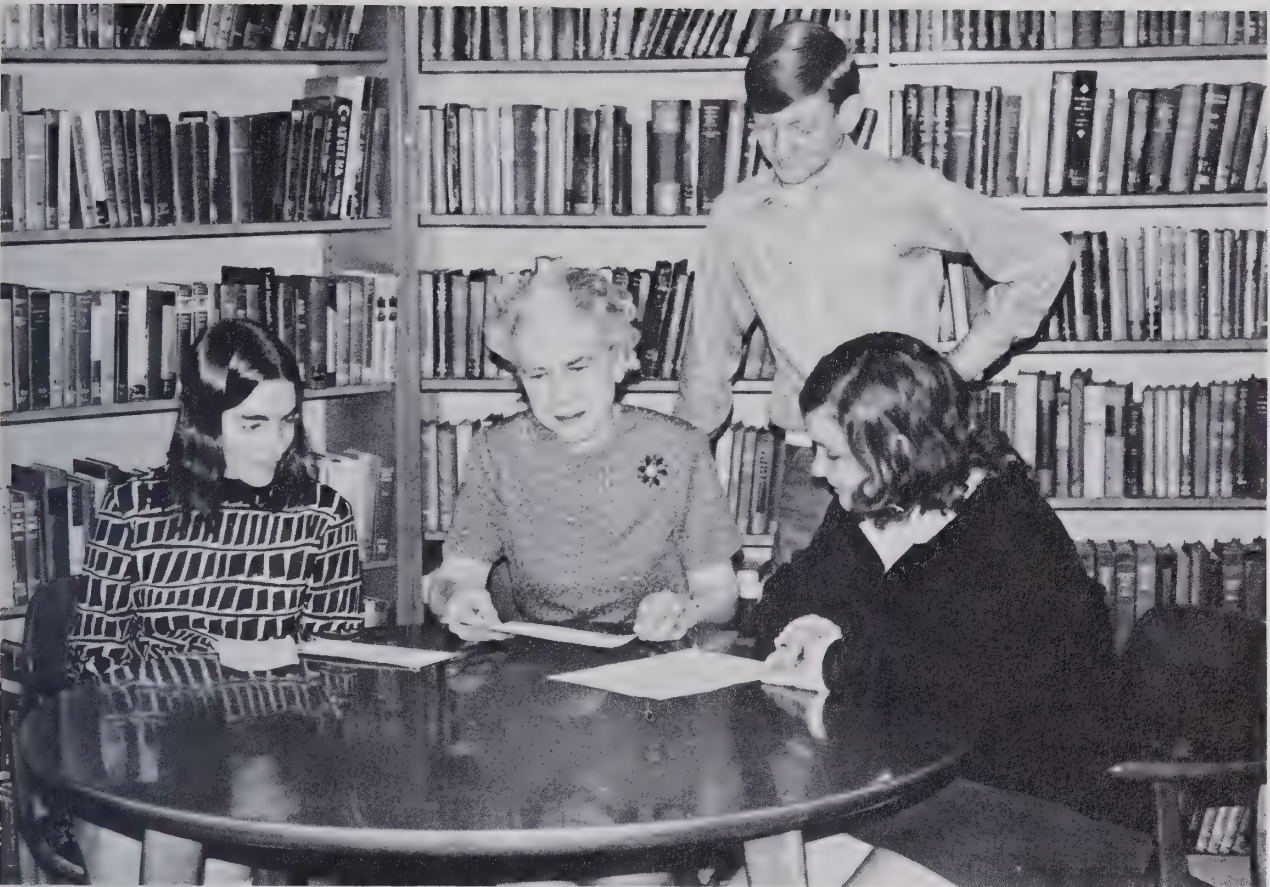

Kathy Grayson and Stephen Herzog attended the North Carolina Library Convention for High School Library Assistants. The theme of the convention was "Media — the name of the game," and this theme was seen in business and study meetings.

As one of their main projects, the Key Club compiled a directory which consisted of the names, grades, and telephone numbers of every Central student.

National Honor Society tapped students in a suspenseful induction. After President Jody Collins and four members spoke on the membership qualifications of character, leadership, scholarship, and service, old members went into the audience to tap the inductees.

French Club was entertained by fascinating speakers such as Nanda Navarro of Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Concerned with doing something artistic for Central, Art Club members designed and constructed a mosaic. Many long hours of intricate details went into the work which will be cherished for a long time to come.

Working against time, the 1973 Pemican editorial staff struggled to meet their deadlines. Never willing to send in a half-done job, the staff put in many overtime hours in order to finish a page.

Drawing lay-outs, cropping pictures, writing copy, identifying pictures, and indexing names were just a few of the "delightful" jobs that had to be done.

Keeping a running account of the events of the year, the junior and senior members of the editorial staff combined their talents to produce the 1972-73 Pointer. Selection of news, sports, and feature stories was based on timely issues and current events of interest to students.

While the editorial staffs were busy improving their journalistic skills, the Pemican and Pointer business staffs approached the public for financial support of the publications.

ALBERT LONG ASSEMBLY

Sophomores and juniors attended an assembly acquainting them with the various vocational departments at Central. Distributive education, metal-working, art, and home economics were among the fields presented to the students.

Seniors had the privilege of hearing guest speaker Captain O. H. Leake of the High Point Police Department during Crime Prevention Week. Captain Leake discussed law changes, and penal system reforms.

"Sportsmanship" was the topic of a student body assembly last spring. The Y.M.C.A. presented Mr. Albert Long as guest speaker and for entertainment the songs "More" and "Close to You."

The 1972 Sports Banquet climaxed a year of winter and spring competition by honoring the team members. After a meal and speeches, several awards were presented to the outstanding athletes.

SCIENCE FAIR

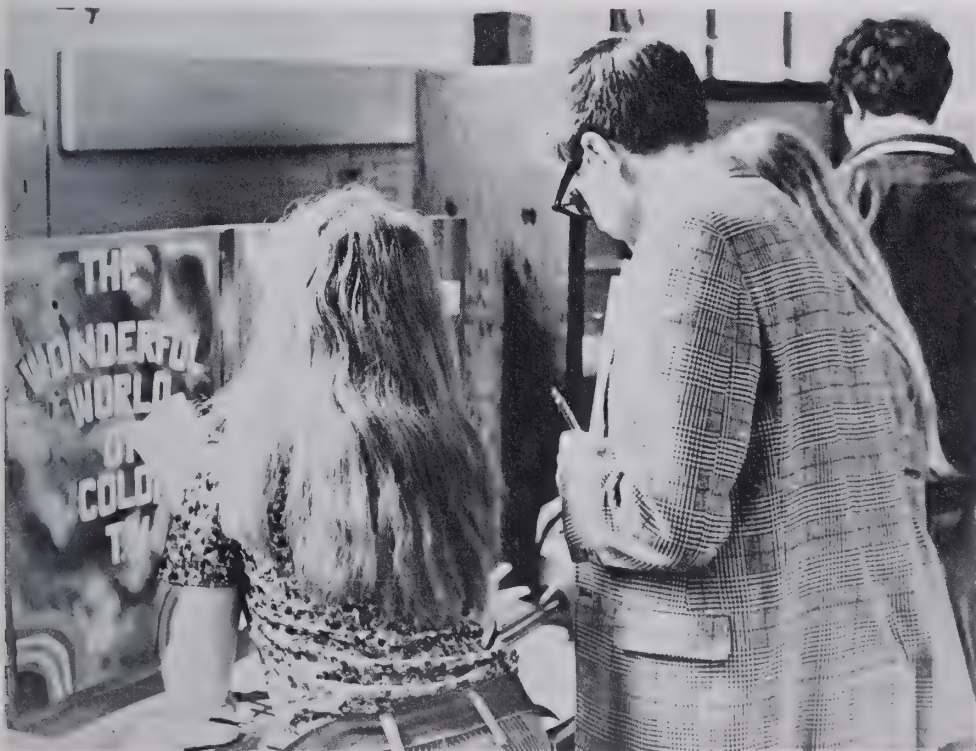

SCIENCE FAIR

French and Spanish students culminated their studies by holding the annual Language Week. Colorful murals, depicting scenes of Paris and Madrid, decorated the halls of the language department and brightened the interior of the cafeteria.

Spanish students sold baked goods and turned the cafeteria into a bull ring for a bull fight.

French students sponsored an outdoor cafe, complete with artist, flower vendor, and French pastry.

Central hosted the annual city-wide science fair, and one of Central's students, Ronald Calliari, placed first with his project. Students from schools all over High Point entered their projects, which showed imagination, much preparation, and diligent work. Projects ranged from chicken growing to the rotation of the earth.

THE DESPERATE HOURS

Under the direction of Mrs. Sylvia Cates and Mrs. Betty Calhoun, budding actors presented The Desperate Hours by Joseph Hayes. With G. W. Atkinson, Barbara Benson, Jaime Powell, and Frank Gray in the starring roles, the play had an appreciative audience.

Because of declining attendance, the talent show was switched to school hours. Although the talent acts were well performed, they were not well received by the student body, who persisted in talking throughout the show.

Voting to change the format, the junior and senior classes returned to the cafeteria for their annual prom. Although attendance was sparse, those who came were enthusiastic.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM

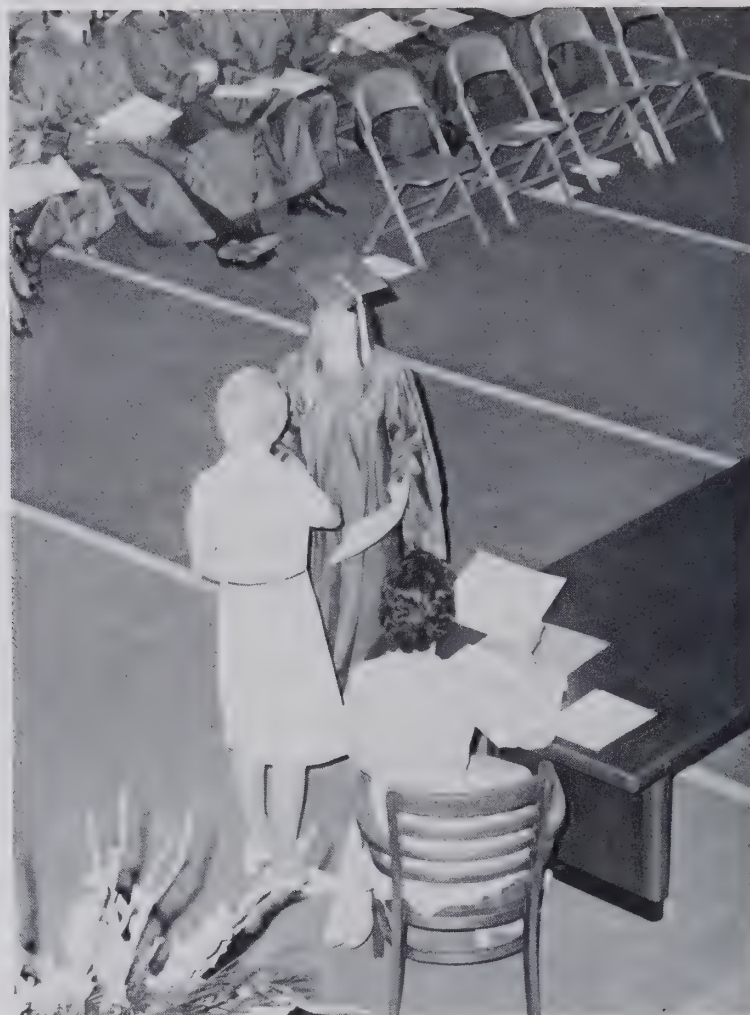

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM

After twelve long and hard years, the seniors of High Point Central formally finished their public school education with the commencement exercises, consisting of rehearsals, blue caps and gowns, a speaker, and the long-awaited diplomas.

Guest speaker, Holt McPherson, told seniors that graduation meant the beginning of life. Students left Central's halls for college, marriage, work, or service in the armed forces. Mixed emotions of joy and sorrow filled the hearts of seniors as many were glad to depart from High Point Central, while at the same time many regretted leaving their high school friends and unforgettable experiences.

Homecoming 1972

Pre-season selection found High Point Central's football team fifth out of six in the conference. However, with these odds against them, the Black Bison finished the season with a 9-3 record, first and undefeated in the conference, and participants in the state playoffs.

While holding Thomasville to 108 yards total offense, Central came out with a hard fought 14-7 win.

The Bison faced stiffer competition in their game against Winston Salem Reynolds, where the Demon spirit was too much to handle. Result: a 14-7 loss.

Central's first conference foe, Page, put the ball in the air 44 times, but the Bison rose to the occasion winning 20-6.

In a tough league game, the Black Bison topped the Smith squad 21-14.

Homecoming, and the Bison faced Grimsley. The key play was a sixty-one yard pass play from Carl Scott to Earl Martin; and, with the homecoming festivities over, the scoreboard showed Central winning 13-6.

Against cross-town rival, Andrews, Central played a good offensive battle, but the Raiders got the breaks. While Andrews led through the entire game, the Bison were threatening with one minute to go when a fumble ended all Central hopes. The game ended 18-13, Andrews on top.

Central clinched a playoff berth with a tight 14-13 decision against Burlington Williams when a Bulldog two-point conversion failed.

For the third time in five years in the playoffs, Coach Roy Boyles and his Bison showed Durham who was superior by easily winning 26-12.

Fayetteville Ross, undefeated and ranked number one in the state, came to town for the semi-final round of the State 4-A; and High Point greeted them with a well-prepared team. Although Central led through the entire game with the fans thinking about meeting H.P. Andrews for the championship, Ross came back with a freak play in the closing seconds to win 28-27.

High Point Central's 1971-72 baseball team went into the season looking for a good year and came away with a 10-7-2 record. The record was not good enough for the conference title, because the Bison fell one game short.

Coached by Roger Hedgecock and Bill Dameron, the Bison captured wins over Thomasville, Dudley, Burlington, Page, and Smith.

Led in the hitting column by Dennis Harris, Jimmy Nicholson, and Greg Hinnant, the team relied on Otis Foster and Geoff Beaston for the big hits and RBI's.

This hitting backed competent pitching with Steve Yates and Rich Haggerty as starters and Larry Morris as first reliever.

Probably the most important factor in Central's good fielding was the overall quickness of the fielders with such players as Tony Shaver, Barry Brewer, Foster, Harris, and Beaston.

High Point Central's 1972-73 basketball season began with high hopes, even though there was a lack of experience at the guard positions. Opening at East Forsyth, the Bison struggled against poor floor plays to pull out a 65-55 victory, sparked by Earl Martin's defensive steals, and quick lay-ups. At Myers Park, the cagers dropped their first as a result of poor shooting and ball-handling. Central gained an easy victory by way of a forfeit from Durham. The Bison traveled to North Forsyth and brought home a 3-1 record after a 71-52 victory over the Vikings. The game against our cross-town adversary left Central on the short end of a 72-54 score. In the final game before the Christmas holidays, Central made it two straight against East Forsyth, winning 52-49.

Competing in the holiday Invitational Tournament, comprised of area teams, the Bison finished fourth. The first day back from Christmas vacation, Central struggled to a 46-36 victory over North Forsyth. Playing in alien territory, Central fell to Andrews 66-53. The poor shooting and ball-handling that had plagued the cagers earlier in the season returned and the Bison dropped a decision to Grimsley.

Central returned to form, against Burlington Cummings, with Carl Scott and Ronnie "J.J." Johnson both contributing 18 points. Scott dominated the backboards, hauling down better than 10 rebounds, as he had done all season. The Bison failed to overcome Burlington Williams and lost in a squeaker 57-55. Scott and Johnson led the Central scoring with 21 and 18 points, respectively. Backed by the strong frontline plays of Scott and Gary Boulware, who scored 18 each, the Bison pulled out a 58-57 victory. A 5-game home stretch was opened with a 52-44 victory over Page featuring Johnson's outside shooting. Despite some outstanding play by Boulware, Scott, and Johnson, the Bison hit a slump which included a 51-50 loss to Smith, a 59-46 decision by Grimsley and a 60-39 defeat at the hands of Burlington Williams.

Throughout the season, the cagers were led defensively by Mike Doobrow, Earl Martin, and Mitchell Little. The last home game was proclaimed Senior Night. Scott, Boulware, Chuck Martin, and Alvin Graves played most of the game since it was their last in Central's gym. All of the seniors performed well and the Bison rolled to a 56-43 victory over Dudley, led by Scott with 18 points and 16 rebounds.

Patience and long hard practices paid off for High Point Central's swim team which finished the season with a 4-4 record. Wins were recorded over Reynolds, Morganton, Chapel Hill, and Smith.

Molly Millis was the first girl to swim on a male high school swim team. Her best contribution to the team was on the relays.

Robert "Fish" Crowder led the swim team by breaking school and conference records at almost every meet. In addition senior Chris Thomas and juniors Wayne Connor, Mark Kellam, Hal Safrit, and Chip Tinsley added valuable points. Fine young talent gives Coach Vic Sanniota high hopes for next season's swim team.

This Central's girls' basketball team managed to do what no previous team had ever done — they have been undefeated. This was the first time they had been champions in this conference and the very first time in Central's history that they have been 20-0.

The starting five of Gail Lewis, Kay Atkins, Sharon Simrel, Pam Kerr, and Ginny Roberts ran up scores such as 72-18, 60-37, and 84-24. Their pressing defense caused frequent turnovers and the sharp offense sparkled with precision. Lewis was leading scorer with a 15.6 point average, and Atkins led all rebounders with 12 per game.

Quarterback Roberts hustled the team to victory with her contagious attitude. The entire team was close-knit, and their fabulous season only aided in bringing them closer.

Central's only female golfer, Kathy Spaugh, became the girls' state golf champion with her score of 79. Playing very consistently in her games, Kathy also won several club championships and tournaments.

For the ninth consecutive year, Central's girls proved last spring that they were the best athletes in the state by winning Playday. The events included were softball, volleyball, track, tennis, badminton, and horseshoes. Individual events were won by Kim Millar in the 100 yard dash and Kay Atkins in the 50 yard dash. The girls took second place in tennis and badminton and the over-all event was won with 59½ points.

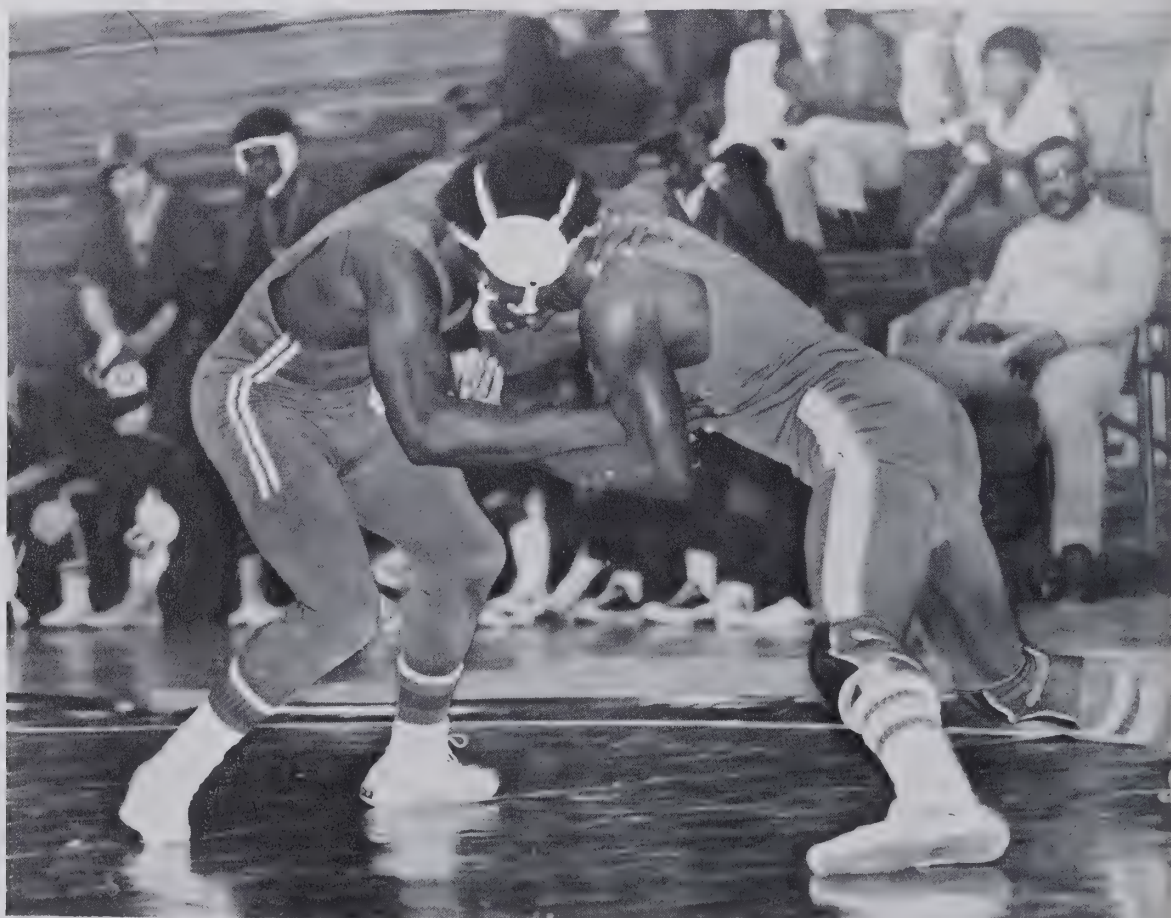

High Point Central's wrestling team pinned and grappled their way to a 15-1-1 record and to the position of conference champions. The matmen's victims included conference opponents, Grimsley, Williams, Page, Smith, and Dudley, along with non-conference foes, the Forsyths, Ragsdale, and Andrews.

The first match against cross-town Andrews resulted in a 27-27 deadlock, while the second match proved disastrous for the Raiders when Central came out on top by the score of 39-24.

Having a 14-0-1 record, the Bison then went against Dudley for the second time, and Dudley came out with a 30-18 victory.

This year's wrestling team was made up of some fine, young talent which makes next year's season hopeful.

Matmen who helped the team to the championship slot included Ronnie Allen and Larry Inzar, co-captains; Phillip Atkinson, Jesse Douglas, John Ferriter, Emery Hinson, Leroy Jordon, Melvin McCollum, Peter Price, Dan Shipplett, Ronnie Stewart, Don Swaim, and Willie Middlebrooks.

High Point Central's 1972 track team, finishing first in conference play, paved their way to a brilliant 10-1 season by beating Andrews three times and Grimsley twice. The only Bison loss was to Reynolds, and this was later avenged by a four-point victory over Reynolds.

The Central cindermen were led all season by Darryl Simrel in the hurdles, pole vault, and long jump; by James Betterson in the sprints and short relays. Other bright individual events for the cindermen were the mile relay and some field competitions.

Central won the 4-A Conference championship, along with finishing third in both the City-County Meet and the All-Star Meet. The individual conference champions were Darryl Simrel, in the long jump, and the 880-yard relay team of James Betterson, James Franklin, Will Primus, and Terry Williams.

Later in the season, Central competed in the sectionals and fought for fourth place. In the state meet, Bison Darryl Simrel placed fifth in the state in the long jump with a school record jump of 21'11".

After long hours of hard practice, High Point Central's girls' tennis team proved that hard work paid off by finishing the season with a 6-0 record. Victories were over Page, Burlington, Andrews, and Grimsley.

Four girls on the Bison team, Sally Caperton, Beth Koonce, Meg Randle, Janet Wheless, continued their playing into the sectionals held at Central in October. Later, Central won other honors when Beth Koonce finished as runner-up in the state tournament and Meg Randle as quarter finalist.

The 1972 Bison tennis team batted their way to a 6-6 record. This included two impressive wins over arch-rival Andrews, two wins over Smith, and single wins over Dudley and Williams.

Central's netters also finished their season in fourth place in the Central 4-A conference. Walker Lee and Wayne Otto proved they could truly hit the ball across the net when they were doubles runners-up in both the conference tournament and the sectionals.

The 1972 Bison golf team had a season of many second places, including a second in conference standings.

All meets were against the five other conference schools, and in three matches, Central missed first place by a five, a three, and a close one stroke.

In the conference golf meet, Central finished in third place, with Mark Burris, Jack Harris, and Rick Slate finishing as three of the top ten golfers in the conference

The High Point Central cross country team opened their 1972 season in September with high hopes of a good year. Although the team overall, went without a victory, the Bison had some outstanding individual performances led by captain Robert Hedrick.

Hedrick constantly finished near the top in each meet. Another bright spot was the improvement of the sophomores who look promising for the next seasons.

The Junior Varsity and Varsity Cheerleaders have been involved this year in selling stickers and pens, hiding tickets, turning cartwheels, making posters, sponsoring Blue-White Day, Hats Off to the Bison Day, Sock-it-to-em Day, Quiet Day, and Tie-em-up Day.

They have tried to raise spirits through pep rallies and have showed special tribute to clubs at one rally where each club wrote and presented a cheer.

The cheerleaders were responsible for a homecoming theme and for decorating the stadium at homecoming.

CHEERLEADERS: Robin Pearce, Brenda Christian

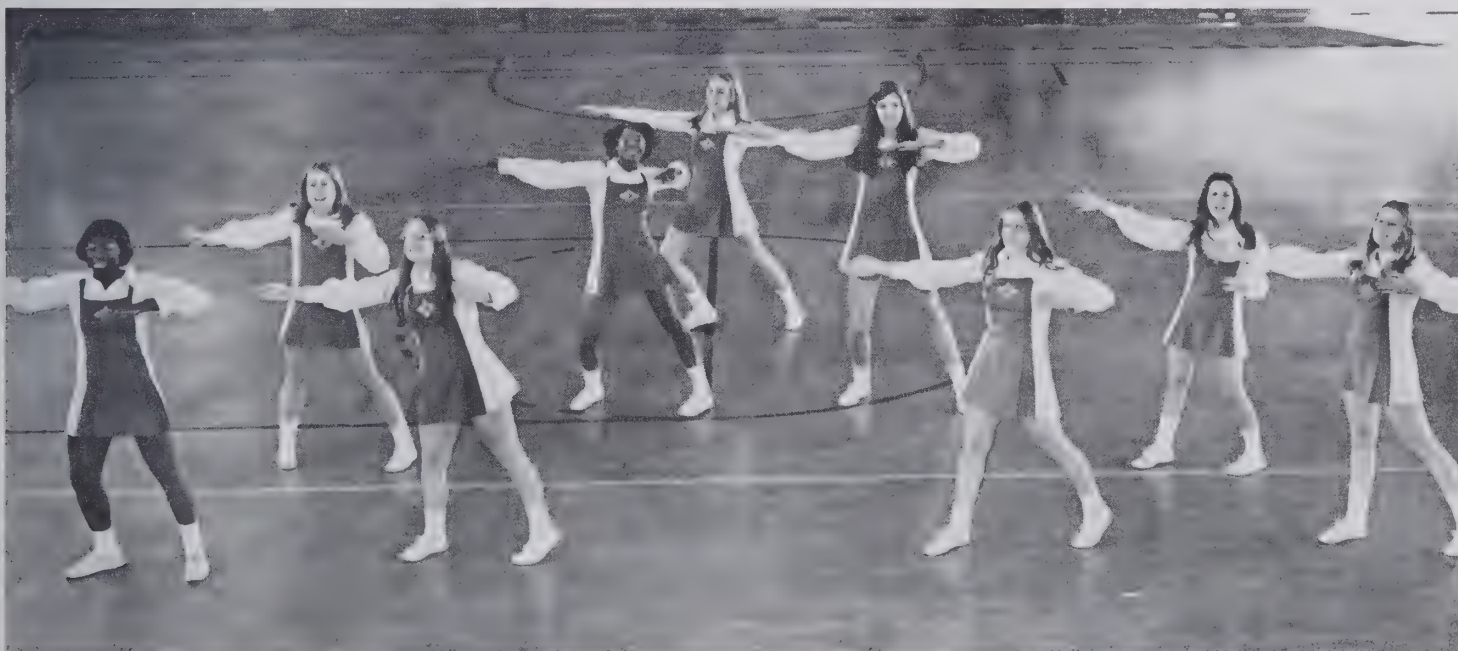

CHEERLEADERS: Debbie Morrow, Betsy Adkins

BISONETTES: Row 1 — Haggerty, Wood, Alston, Meyers, Parker, Aldridge. Row 2 — Hammonds, Allen, Turney, Banks, Jones, Bailey.

The Bisonettes were a new, hard-working team at Central this year. They began practice in the summer in preparation for the football season.

At each home game the Bisonettes gave a dance routine to the music of Central's band. Their performances added a new dimension to the half-time activities.

Administration

Laurin Welborn was the new Chairman of the High Point School Board while Dr. John D. Bridgers was new vice-chairman. Mrs. Dorothy K. Kearns and Charles E. Neill, Jr., were appointed as new members of the Board. Continuing as members from last year were Dr. Perry Little, James Chestnut, Jay M. Thomas, Dr. Dean B. Pruette, Superintendent of Schools, and D. P. Whitley, Jr., Attorney.

The Board was involved in putting into effect the new nine-weeks grading period, with a one-day evaluation between each nine-weeks period. It also dealt with implementation of the new tenure law of North Carolina.

Others involved in the supervision of High Point schools were Dr. Lloyd Y. Thayer, Associate Superintendent; Dr. Virginia Lewis, Secondary Education Supervisor; Dr.

Kathleen Brady, Pupil Personnel; Miss Gwen Doggett, Art Supervisor; James E. Surratt, Project Coordinator; A. J. Simeon, Director of Athletics and Driver Training; and Bernie M. Sheffield, Library Coordinator.

Others who helped keep the school system running were Jack M. Cox, Assistant Superintendent for Buildings and Grounds; Walter Jones, Purchasing Agent; Mrs. Marjorie Hill, Accountant; and Mrs. Mary Dillard, Lunchroom Supervisor.

On the local scene at High Point Central, the Administration was comprised of Jerry G. Shaver, Principal; Kenneth D. Dickens, Assistant Principal; and Ralph H. Vance, Dean of Students.

Office Staff, Guidance

Three well-known faces seen around Central were those of Mrs. Doris Teague and Mrs. Alice Dameron — the general office secretaries, and Mrs. Louise Jones in the Dean's Office.

Credited with brightening a dull, stereotyped day, they also spread good will to all the teachers.

Entrusted with the heavy responsibility of keeping the school running efficiently, these essential people performed duties ranging from keeping endless school records to managing money matters and checking attendance.

Very important and necessary was the Guidance Office manned by Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Maxwell and the new counselor Mrs. Blair.

The Guidance Office was responsible for educational, vocational and personal guidance. The counselors sponsored College Day, Career Day, and the coffees for parents. Also, they made us feel they were there when we needed them.

Another necessary job in our school was that of the home-school coordinator, Mr. Andrews. Part of a federally-funded program, the position was set up to bring better communication among the home, the student, and the school.

Mrs. Doris Teague — Secretary

Mrs. Alice Dameron — Secretary

Mrs. Louise Jones — Secretary

Mrs. Evelyn Harris — Guidance Counselor

Mr. Lee Andrews — Home-School Coordinator

Mrs. Sandra Blair — Guidance Counselor

Mrs. Sally Maxwell — Guidance Counselor

Cafeteria, Maintenance

Students of Central were in very dependable hands when in the building and the cafeteria. Two very important staffs, the cafeteria and maintenance, kept our school clean and the students and faculty well fed.

With doughnuts and orange juice before school and with special functions, such as parent coffees, sports banquets, club teas, football dinners, NFL breakfasts, and class suppers, Central's cafeteria staff was certainly kept busy.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Mary Irene Fowler, the staff served around 500 people a day, and still found time to bake fresh buns, rolls, and bread.

Keeping the school in tip-top condition was the responsibility of Central's maintenance staff. These hard workers were kept busy sweeping floors, emptying waste baskets, and repairing loose odds and ends.

Fine Arts

The music and art departments of High Point Central were both equipped to help students develop appreciation, while at the same time helping to develop their talents to the professional level.

Under the direction of Mr. Carter, about one hundred students of the Concert and Symphonic Bands comprised the best marching band Central had for a long time. Performing in parades, half-time shows, and special concerts, each member worked hard to perfect his own playing ability.

Having less than twenty members to work with in the orchestra, Mr. Ruth strived for individual performance while at the same time striving for group accomplishment. For the first time, the combination of orchestra students from Central, Andrews, and ninth graders from Ferndale and Northeast had an opportunity to play together in a large orchestra.

Civic clubs, junior high schools, and church groups all had the chance of hearing the perfected numbers of Central's A Cappella Choir, Centralaires, Choralettes, or Ensemble. Students further developed musical techniques at workshops and a regional Choral Festival.

In taking art, students absorbed the fundamentals of color, balance, and harmony while working with pottery, macrame, silk screen, design, and etching.

Mrs. Florence Greene — Chorus, Ensemble

Business, Graphics, Industrial Arts

For those students who wished to go into retailing, wholesaling, or other areas of marketing, Distributive Education and Marketing courses were offered.

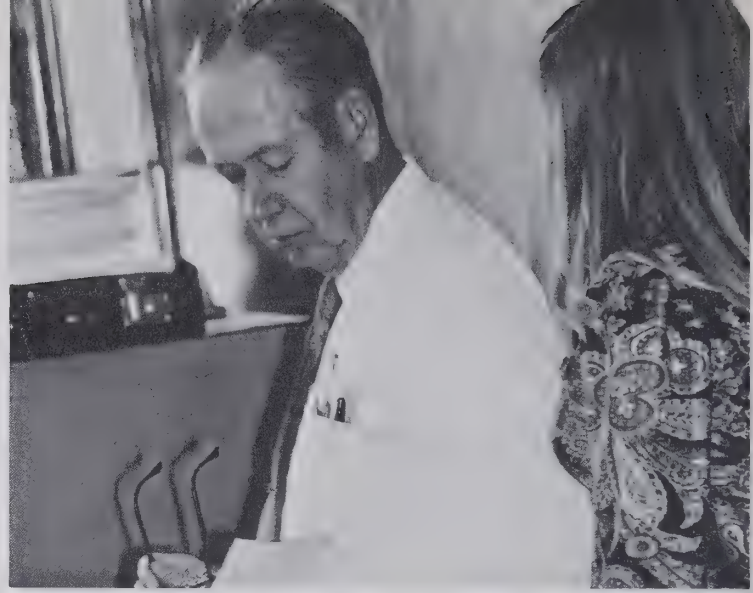

Industrial Cooperative Training consisted of students planning a career in some area of production or trade, such as plumbing, carpentry, or appliance repair.

Busy typing and doing shorthand, some students practiced talents which would prepare them for future jobs in the clerical field.

DECA and VICA provide on-the-job training as preparation for some students' futures.

Metal, Wood, Small Engines, and Basic Aeronautics courses were offered to students and gave them the basic fundamentals to help in the future. Many students traveled to William Penn every day to take Bricklaying and Auto Mechanics.

English

After tedious conferences with Andrews High School and among themselves, faculty unveiled the sparkling new English curriculum.

Sophomores, not yet acclimated to rigors of higher English, were subjected to "Preview and Review" in preparation for the second semester.

In its debut at Central, the new English program traversed the rocky road of refining young adults engaged in an often foreign language — English.

Miss Eleanor Young — English, Quill and Scroll, Pointer Ed.

Mrs. Lolita Page — English, Keyettes

Mrs. Dorothy Campbell — English, Civinettes

Mrs. Ruth McClaren — English, Civinettes

Miss Phyllis Oakley — English, School Stare

Mrs. Jane Kerr — English

Mrs. Evelyn Dawalt — English, Reading Lab, Subjuniors

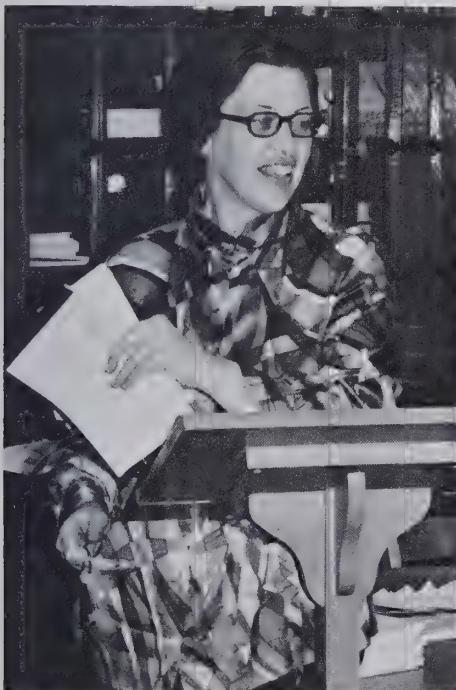

Mr. Keith Yokley — English, Key Club

Mrs. Betty Calhoun — English, Pemican Editorial

Mrs. Janet Tate — English, Senior Class

Mrs. Linda Smith — ESAP Aide in Reading Lab.

Miss Flo Denny — English, Student Council

Mrs. Dianne Packard — English, Bisonettes, Pep Club

Foreign Language

Only two foreign languages survived after the removal of Latin from the curriculum — French and Spanish. However, grammar, vocabulary, and culture were the fundamentals still being mastered by the foreign language students.

After putting in new language labs, both teachers and students experimented with the individual headsets and central control. With much technical difficulty, students tried to become more fluent with practice and more practice.

Money for scholarships for both French and Spanish students was raised by the sale of stationery and by the selling of delectable goodies in the cafeteria during Foreign Language Week.

Miss Maxalynn Mourane — French II, III, IV, French Club

Mrs. Karen McFadyen — Spanish I, IV, Spanish Club, JV Cheerleaders

Mr. Luis Sanchez — Spanish II, III, Spanish Club

Miss Mary McDavid — French I, II, English, French Club

Mrs. Diane Faircloth — Advanced Home Ec., Housing and Home Management, Boys' Home Ec., Child Development, FTA

Home Economics

Hoping to prepare themselves for a practical future, Home Economics students, both male and female, learned basic homemaking skills, such as cooking, nutrition, sewing, decorating, child development, and family relationships.

With many courses offered to boys, male involvement became more commonplace. Classes included Boys' Home Economics, Food Services, Food and Nutrition, Housing, and Child Development.

Home Economic teachers, Mrs. Diane Faircloth, Mrs. Dorothy Bostic, and Miss Millie Benfield, interestedly trained their students for becoming better family members, for employment upon leaving high school, and for continuation of the study of home economics in college.

Mrs. Dorothy Bostic — Home Economics I, Food Services, Clothing and Textiles, FHA, Senior Class

Miss Millie Benfield — Advanced Home Ec., Foods and Nutrition, Boys' Home Ec., Child Development, FHA

Mathematics

Although math is supposed to teach one to deal logically with problems, this theory usually worked in reverse. Much hair-pulling and mind-searching usually accompanied the solving of the more difficult problems.

Courses offered to Central's students were General Math I, and II, Algebra I, II, and III, Algebra/Trig, Geometry, Business Math, Consumer Math and the advanced Analysis, Analytic Geometry, and Trigonometry courses.

With everyone required to take two math courses for graduation, there is always a demand for all types of math.

Mr. Vic Sanniota — General Math, Business Math, Swimming

Miss Landry Neely — General Math II, Junior Class, Pemican Editorial

Mrs. Christine Stephens — Geometry, Sophomore Class, Math Club

Mrs. Euna Holder — Geometry, Algebra I, Sophomore Class

Miss Gail Harris — Algebra I, Algebra and Trig., Analysis, and Analytic Geo.,
Pointer Business

Mrs. Eunice Lewis — General Math II, Geometry, Anchor Club

Miss Sandi Lee — Algebra II, III, Trigonometry, Pep Club

Mrs. Sharon Stewart — Algebra II, III, Trigonometry, General Math,
Beta Club, Math Club

Library

Students had a place at Central where diligent studying, reading, and research were offered in a well-equipped and quiet room — the library.

With more than 18,000 books, filmstrips, newspapers, microfilms, and disc recordings, Central's library tried to meet every student's individual needs with the helpful assistance of librarians, Miss Elizabeth Byrd and Miss Bain Johnson.

Work and research were not the only interests in the library, however. Books for enjoyment and enlightenment about far-away lands, math theories, or situation comedies were also available for interested students.

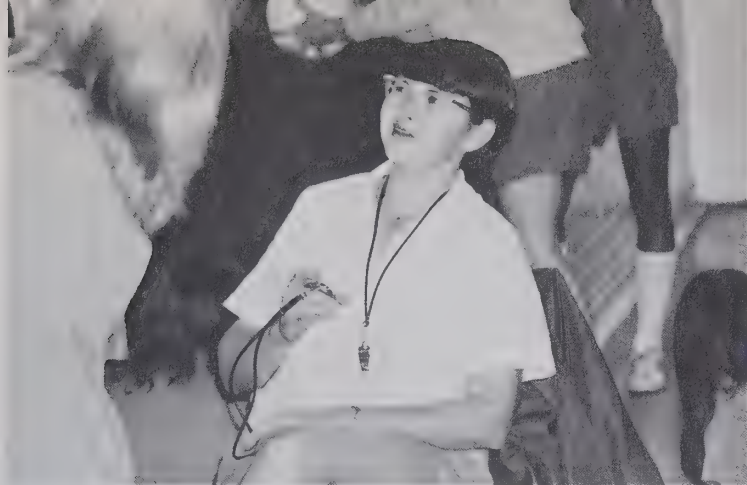

Miss Elizabeth Byrd — Librarian, Library Club

Miss Bain Johnson — Librarian, Library Club

Miss Pat Hester — Phys. Ed., GAA

Physical Education, Driver Education

Physical fitness, along with the betterment of general ability and coordination, were goals for which physical education classes strived.

Boys strengthened their virility by participating in weight training along with the usual tag football, basketball, wrestling, and track.

Girls exhausted themselves with such strenuous activities as field hockey and gymnastics while sex education further developed their minds.

Coaches Carden and Moore took on the job of instructing 150 students in terrifying under-the-wheel driver training which included many near wrecks. During the thirty-six hours of classroom and eighteen hours of actual driving, the students tried to learn the fundamental skills of driving and parking, which involved bumping into parking meters and curbs.

Miss Andra Cozart — Phys. Ed., GAA

Mr. Roy Boyles — Phys. Ed., Football, Track

Mr. Ken Moore — Driver Ed., Football, Tennis, Interact

Mr. Pat Withers — Phys. Ed., Football, Wrestling

Mr. Macky Carden — Driver Ed., Football, Basketball, Baseball

Science

Along with the regular science programs offered this year, two new science courses have been introduced.

These were Ecology and Environmental Science, dealing with the relationship of man and his environment; and Anatomy, dealing with each system of the human body.

Other courses offered this year included Physical Science, Biology, Chemistry, and Physics.

Many of these classes were centered around laboratory exercises, special research papers, and projects prepared by students for the North Carolina Academy of Sciences.

Also, for exceptional students, independent study was offered, dealing with advanced chemistry.

Last year, Central was host for the city-wide 1972 Science Fair, and several Central students placed in District Competition. For this year's fair, students also had a chance to show their scientific knowledge and interest by submitting a project.

Mrs. Rachel Roberts — Chemistry, Competitive Speech, NFL, Debate, Junior Class

Mrs. Gwendolyn Davis — Biology, Anatomy, Ecology, NHS

Mr. J. E. Sink — Biology, Science Club

Mrs. Verdie Kendall — Biology, Ecology, Anatomy, Sophomore Class, Science Club

Mrs. Carylton Dockery — Physics, Physical Science, Adv. Physical Science, NHS, High IQ Bowl Team

Mr. Lee Miller — Biology, General Science, Audio-Visual

Mr. Bob Spurgeon — Biology, Cross Country, Junior Jaycees

History

History courses were given a greater sense of relevancy this year with the introduction of a new curriculum. In hopes of meeting the needs and interests of the students, this new curriculum was directed toward giving students an opportunity to learn by inquiry and to build social skills and attitudes for now and the future.

Teachers tried to create interest by inviting outside speakers and conducting field trips to points of interest. Sociology classes became infamous for their numerous questionnaires, and psychology classes continued their study of mental health with a trip to a mental institution.

New courses available in this year's curriculum, Eastern and Western Cultures, and American Studies, interested students in various aspects of history.

Dr. Helen Miller — Sociology, Psychology, Economics, Western Cultures, Interclub Council

Mr. Bill Dameron — U. S. Studies, Football, Baseball

Mr. Michael Pierce — Western Cultures, Eastern Cultures, NFL, Senior Class

Mrs. Sylvia Cates — U. S. Studies, Cheerleading

Miss Eleanor Tapp — U. S. Studies, Beta Club

Mrs. Mary Phillips — Study Center Coordinator

Mrs. Kathy Shimonis — Government, Reading Improvement, Social Development

Mr. Paul Hutchins — Psychology, Sociology, World Geography, Football, Wrestling, Track, FCA

In search of Euglena, spores, mitochondria, students often discover frailty of cover glass

The Class of '75 entered the sophisticated world of Central eagerly and apprehensively. They soon learned that the word "sophomore" could be used in a derogatory way.

Hoping to be successful, sophomores adopted candy-selling as the new project.

Most sophomores, fascinated by the events of Homecoming, naively waited for the time that they could get out.

Trite but true, the once wide-eyed sophomore was now prepared to mock his underclassmates.

Plans began molding for the future.

Aware of all-important future plans, seniors gain first-hand knowledge through business and vocational courses

What can one say about the Class of '73? That they brought about needed changes. And had fun doing it. That they loved the beaches and those weekend trips to colleges. And High Point Central.

Most students agreed that the new nine-week evaluation period was better than the six-week term. Reasons ranged from the courses being more interesting to having no big exams.

Students thought of May 30th with a mixture of sadness and expectation, knowing that once they are gone, they will have left behind a part of their minds, their hearts — their hopes.

Little things maybe, but it was these "little things" that made this last school year something special, something memorable — a success.

WAY TO GO BISON!

It is never safe to consider individuals in groups, classes, or races. To ascribe virtues or vices to all the individuals of a group is as senseless as it is unjust and inaccurate.

We'd like to take this time to reflect upon a task that is now behind us. It's been a hard job, but a fun one, trying to put a year of your ideas and actions onto paper. We appreciate the Executive Board's concern for our including all school groups.

We'd like to thank the following people for making this endeavor possible:

Mr. Shaver, for helping us make many crucial decisions and then backing us all the way.

Mr. Dickens, for keeping us informed of all school activities and assemblies.

Guidance Staff, for helping us identify those 1,000 nameless faces.

The faculty, for putting up with our picture days and those times that made it imperative that we miss class.

Mrs. Calhoun and Miss Neely, our advisors, for those long and late hours you've put into this book. Thanks also for making this year a learning and exciting experience. And thanks to the Calhoun family for welcoming us into their home.

Lee Coble and John Krapels, our co-associate editors, for helping us plan the general lay-out of the book. A special thanks to Lee for writing an endless amount of copy. And, thanks to John for scheduling all those necessary pictures and making sure all the photographers got to their assigned places on time.

Ralph Miller, for taking on added responsibility in a time of need. Sara Beth Terrell, for devoting many extra hours to the Pemican. And a special thanks to the rest of our staff: Trisha Auman, Kent Blackwelder, Charles Cain, Jane Cline, Cindi Farlow, Brenda Harrington, Caroline Hunter, Vivian Mackey, Debbie Morrow, Meg Randle, Mary Jo Southern, and Betsy Stancil for enabling us to meet our deadlines.

David Joyce, for serving as head photographer and shooting club and theme shots. Also, thanks, for helping new photographers get started.

Barbara Benson, for giving up study hall to put in needed hours in the darkroom. Robert Allred, Steve Bollick, John Cathey, Ron Cathey, and Dennis McDowell. Thanks for taking all those pictures needed to complete this book.

Miss Medford, advisor; and Diane Alexander and Hazel Lilly, business managers; for heading up the business end of this publication.

Doug Gilstrap, for helping us last spring with sports shots.

Mr. Sink, for pictures from the Junior-Senior Prom.

Mr. Pendergrass, for giving us some good, solid, technical advice.

Jeff Sullivan, for taking our graduation pictures.
High Point Police Department, for fingerprints.

Delmar Printing Company, for all the help and understanding given us in the printing of this book. Thanks for the Farmville workshop which got us off to a strong start.

Max Ward, for technical advice and for shooting our senior pictures.

Cornelius Faucet Boswell, Jr., our Delmar representative, for being "Whitey." A special thanks for help and concern for the publication of this book and for taking our underclassmen portraits and club pictures.

We hope we have recognized on this page all the people who have helped us this year. If we've overlooked someone, please realize that we do appreciate you.

Thank you,
Melody and Cameron

"What do you suppose will satisfy the soul, except to walk free and own no superior?"

Walt Whitman

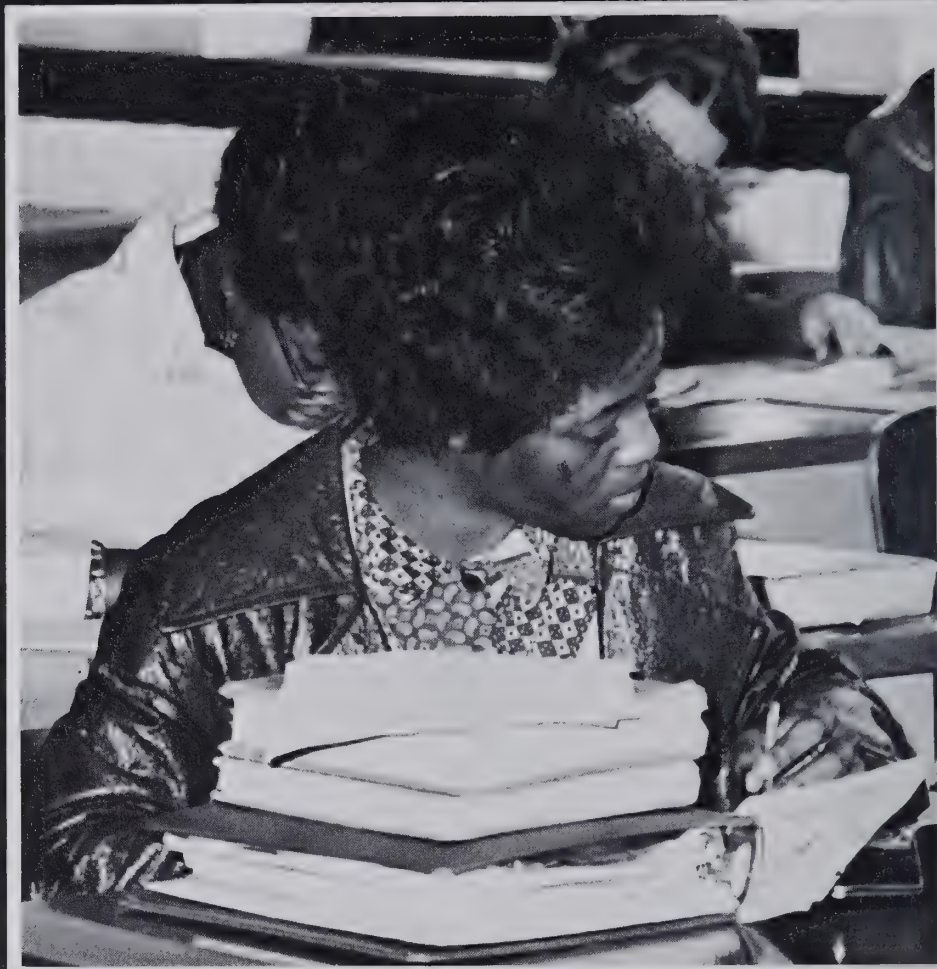

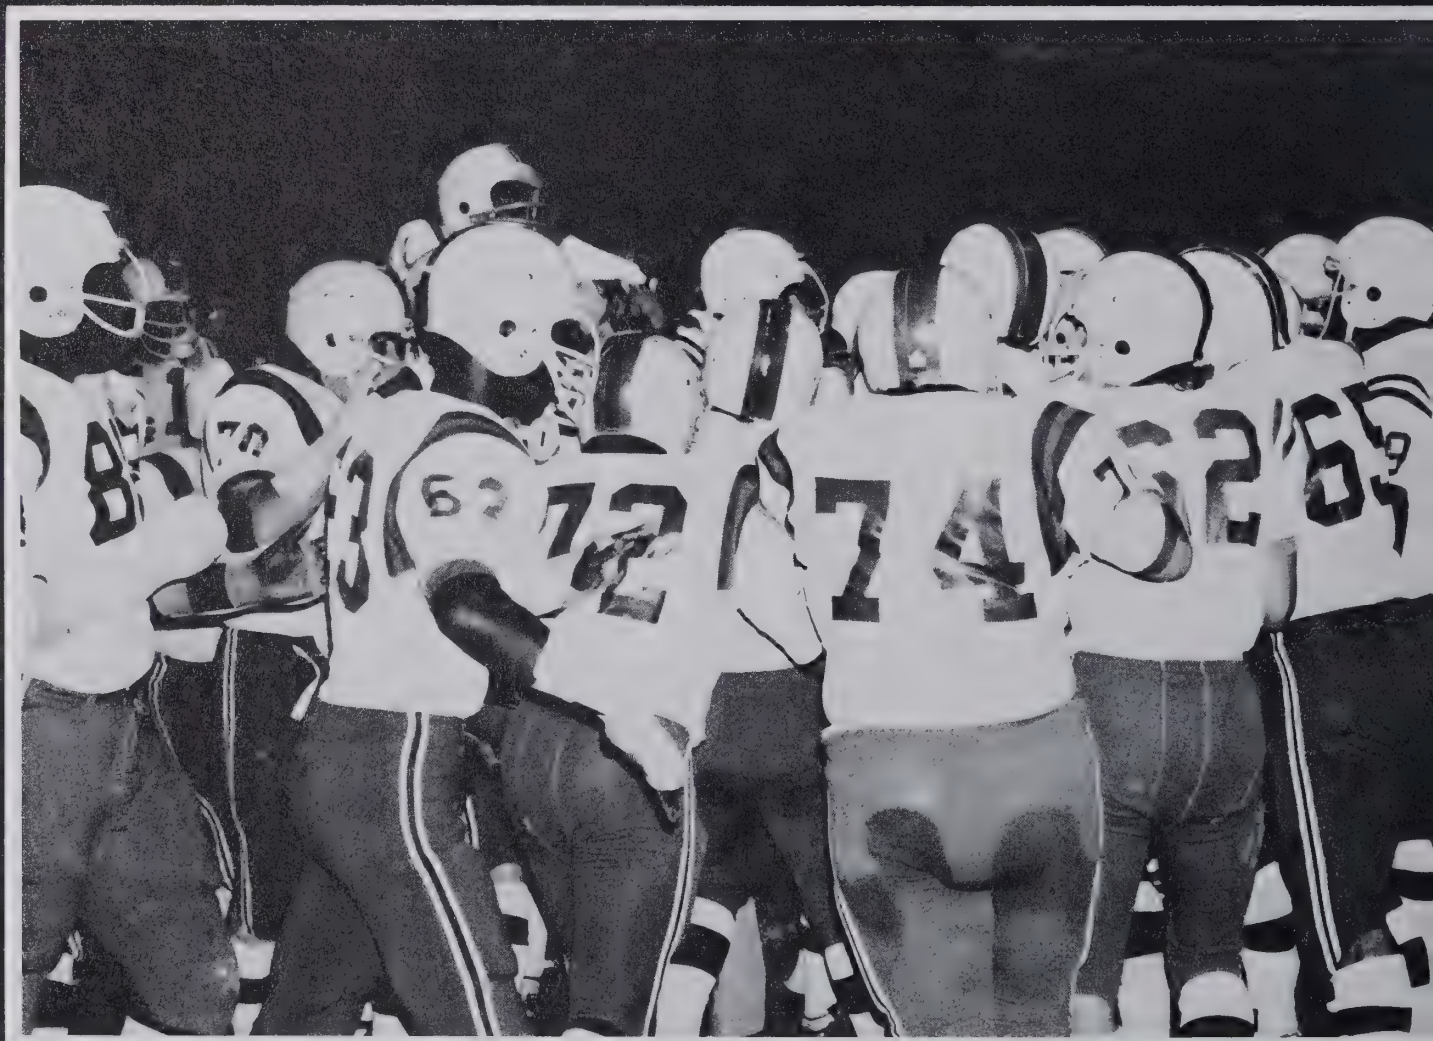

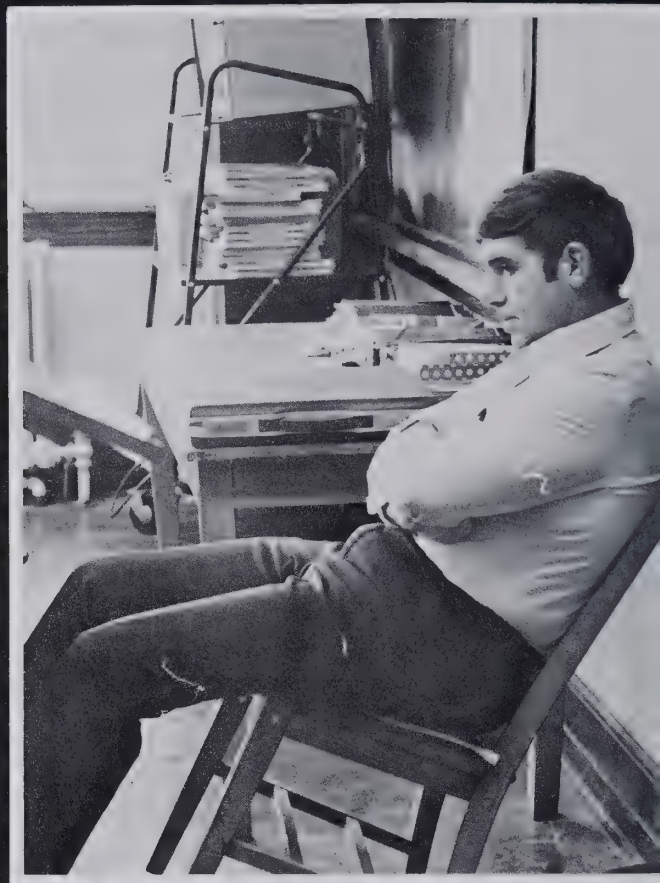

Life has made us into a noisy bustling mass in which we exist only as its mirrored image.

But amid this noise and bustle the individual finds peace and solitude

For this we must break away
And become individuals.
